Course Description
This is an online, asynchronous course exploring the design of and motivation for invented languages from a modern linguistic point of view. Invented languages are those that are the result of some conscious and deliberate design rather than ones occurring naturally. We will explore the different motivations for language invention, from the desire to create a “perfect language”, to fictional worldbuilding, to fostering global harmony.

In characterizing the different types of invented languages, students will develop familiarity with the basic tools of linguistic theory, focusing on phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics. Languages analyzed in detail include Klingon, Esperanto, Lojban, Valyrian, Elvish, and various philosophical languages.

Prerequisites
There are no prerequisites for this course.

Course Learning Objectives
By the end of this course, students should successfully be able to:

- Explore and evaluate motivations for inventing new languages
- Compare invented languages to natural human languages
- Characterize and analyze the types of existing invented languages
- Become familiar with the fundamental tools of modern linguistic theory

Assignment Overview

Weekly Expectations
You are expected to follow along with all material as the semester progresses. Each week will consist of one unit, which will have the same basic structure listed below:

- Tuesday:
  - New Unit begins! Begin working through the material for the week.
  - Reading Quiz and forum participation open.
- Friday:
  - Reading Quiz due at 11:59pm
  - Initial post on Discussion due at 11:59pm.
- Sunday:
  - Discussion Responses due at 11:59pm.

Reading Quizzes
Each week, you must take a short quiz based on the readings and lesson materials. The quizzes are in the Quizzes module of Canvas. Unless otherwise indicated, you can submit the quiz only once, and you must work on this alone. Once you start, you will have 90 minutes to complete the quiz! The lowest quiz grade is dropped.

Midterm Project
The midterm Project is worth 15% of the course grade. The assignment is designed to let you use the tools and information learned in class in a creative way. The assignment is in the Canvas Assignments module. The assignment is viewable since the first day of the course and will become open for submission a week before the indicated due date. The assignment must be submitted as a single PDF document.

Final Presentation
The Final Presentation is worth 25% of the course grade. You are required to present your work to the classmates in the last week of this course (Dec 5th (Sat)). As you can view from the Final presentation module in this Canvas site, the content of the presentation work is the continuation of the Midterm Project and is designed to let you use the tools and information learned in class in a creative way.

Group Discussions
Participation in the online discussion board is required to recreate the type of learning environment present in a physical classroom. Hope you will enjoy and benefit from learning each other’s ideas!

The entire class will be randomly split into discussion groups with about 10 members. From Week 1 to Week 5, you are expected to make one initial post by Saturday following the discussion prompts, and make at least two replies to other members’ posts by Tuesday. The discussion thread will be visible to the members in the same discussion group as well as to the instructor.

Your post for each unit contributes up to 5 pts to your participation grade. Your posts are graded based on
- whether they are on time (1 pt max),
- whether your initial post is on point, following the format specified in each discussion prompt (2 pt max),
- and how well your comments to other members help them develop their ideas (2 pt max).

Student Participation Expectations
Because this is an online course, your attendance is based on your online activity and participation. The following is a summary of everyone’s expected participation:

- Time Commitment
  To be successful in this course, you should plan to dedicate approximately 4-5 hours per week.

- Office hours and live sessions:
  All live, scheduled events for the course, including my office hours, are optional. For live presentations, I will provide a recording that you can watch later.

- The scheduled Office hours will be held as a Canvas conference, in which you can optionally participate.
• If you want to talk to me at any other time, please email me to set up a meeting. If you need to discuss an assignment with me, please contact me at least 5 days before the due date of the assignment.

Discussion and Communication Guidelines
The following are my expectations for how we should communicate as a class. Above all, please remember to be respectful and thoughtful.

• Writing style: While there is no need to participate in class discussions as if you were writing a research paper, you should remember to write using good grammar, spelling, and punctuation. Informality (including an occasional emoticon) is fine for non-academic topics. Please also refrain from using all CAPITAL LETTERS, as this is often interpreted as shouting.

• Tone and civility: Let's maintain a supportive learning community where everyone feels safe and where people can disagree amicably. Remember that sarcasm doesn't always come across online. Treat your instructor and fellow students with respect at all times, and in all communications.

• Citing your sources: When we have academic discussions, please cite your sources to back up what you say. (For the textbook or other course materials, list at least the title and page numbers. For online sources, include a link.)

• Backing up your work: Consider composing your academic posts in a word processor, where you can save your work, and then copying into the Canvas discussion.

Course Schedule and Deadlines

Important: you need to complete the Course Introduction Module before you can start Unit 1. The Course Introduction Module includes the very first reading quiz, which is based on information from the syllabus. You can take this quiz multiple times and you must eventually score 100%.

Support and Policies

Late work
This course has set deadlines within each week so that participants may complete the assignments as a cohort and benefit from each other’s experience. Late quizzes are graded with a penalty of 10% per day overdue. Unexcused late discussion posts and late mid-term projects are not accepted. There is no make-up for the final exam.

These penalties can be waived only if the extension was due to irresistible forces such as religious observance, documented medical conditions of yourself, and medical care for your family. If you have an issue. If you find yourself in one of these situations, immediately contact the instructor attaching your waiving request and good-faith explanation of the circumstance, along with all supporting documents you find necessary.

Feedback and Response Time
I will reply to emails within 24 hours on school days. Please include the course number (Ling 190) in the subject line.

Academic Integrity
The consequences of scholastic dishonesty are very serious. Please review the Rutgers’ academic integrity policy. (Notice that this is policy is revised in June. I encourage you to go over the policy once again.)

Academic integrity means, among other things:

- Develop and write all of your own assignments.
- Show in detail where the materials you use in your papers come from. Create citations whether you are paraphrasing authors or quoting them directly. Be sure always to show source and page number within the assignment and include a bibliography in the back.
- Do not fabricate information or citations in your work.
- Do not facilitate academic dishonesty for another student by allowing your own work to be submitted by others.
If you are in doubt about any issue related to plagiarism or scholastic dishonesty, please discuss it with your instructor.

To begin this process, please complete the Registration Form on the Office for Disability Services website.
