About this course
This course is an introduction to the study of linguistics and contemporary linguistic theory. Linguistics is a broad term that encompasses basically anything having to do with the scientific study of human language. Linguists use mathematical systems (often called ‘formal systems’) to develop precise theories that help us understand the incredibly rich cognitive processes that allow us to use language to communicate with each other, conduct an internal monologue, and so much more.

In this course, we’ll focus on several key areas of modern linguistic theory: morphology (the study of words and word formation), syntax (the study of how sentences and phrases are built and structured), semantics (the study of how words and phrases are associated with meaning), and phonetics and phonology (the study of “speech sounds”, broadly — scare quotes because we can also study the phonetics and phonology of signed languages!).

Course learning goals
At the completion of this course, students will be able to:
• Understand significant subfields within linguistics.
• Understand, create, and manipulate representations and analyses in morphology, syntax, semantics, phonetics, and phonology.

Department learning goals met by this course:
• Students will reason about language; identify how incorrect or irrational assumptions and prejudices distort understanding of language; demonstrate knowledge about language in the world including a sophisticated understanding of linguistic and cultural variation, and evaluate popular views on the nature of human languages and their speakers.
• Majors and Minors will also demonstrate technical mastery over the tools of linguistic analysis in syntax, phonology and semantics and apply linguistic theory in these areas. They will investigate linguistic data and analyze it; demonstrate strong problem-solving skills; extend their understanding of theoretical linguistics into other domains of linguistic research; apply the techniques of linguistics that they have learned in the core courses to new topics; and access current research in the field. Some students will investigate language in a broader context, where it can be systematically and rationally explored using their sophisticated understanding how language works.

This course has been approved as a Core Curriculum Course and satisfies these 2 Core Curriculum learning goals:
• Understand the nature of human languages and their speakers. [AHq]
• Apply effective and efficient mathematical or other formal processes to reason and to solve problems. [QR]

Course website

This course has a website on Canvas (canva.rutgers.edu) Log on using your NETID and password, and then look for the course in your Dashboard or Courses. If you encounter difficulty using Canvas, please contact their Helpdesk.

Zoom

If needed, the class can also be held via zoom. The link will be posted on Canvas. Go to ‘General resources module’ in the course website. Please email me if you face any issue.

Office Hours will be held either on Zoom or in person at the TA office at the Department of Linguistics. Please book office hour and select your meeting preference via Calendly or communicate with me by email.

Office hours/Student support hours

• Office hours are for you to clarify any questions/doubts or discuss something from class material.
• Office hours can sometimes be very busy, please be well-prepared for your visit to the office hours; for example, you should identify in advance the specific questions you want to discuss. In addition to the course materials, you are also more than welcome to discuss other materials on linguistics with me.
• Please be aware that the office hours can NOT be used for re-teaching the materials. If you need to make up a class, you must go over the slides, course recordings, and notes by yourself first before visiting the office hours. Please also be aware I cannot help with solutions of homework that are not yet graded.
• Extra meeting time can be set up by appointment. Please try to schedule appointments at least 4 days prior to the meeting date. Feel free to email me with questions and doubts, I will try to clarify them at the earliest, irrespective of us meeting or not.

Evaluation and required work

Your final grade is based on homework assignments, midterm and final exams, and attendance/participation (both in lecture and recitation). The percentage-wise breakdown is on the left, and the corresponding letter grades are on the right. There is no P/NC policy this semester.

• Attendance  You are expected to attend every lecture unless you’re feeling unwell. If you have a fever, cough, sore throat or for other reasons don’t feel well, please stay home and take care of yourself (and in so doing, take care of your classmates). If you miss a class, you are responsible for (1) going through previous materials before the next class and completing any assignments in a timely manner, and (2) using the University absence reporting website (sims.rutgers.edu/ssra) to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email is automatically sent to me.

Participation grade  is related to your attendance. Any unreported absence will reflect in a decrease in your participation grade. The rubric for participation grade:

• Homeworks and exams  Homeworks and exams must be submitted to Canvas by the due date and time. Late submissions are not accepted, but your two lowest-scoring homeworks will be dropped. Missed exams will result in a score of zero for the exam, unless accompanied by proof of illness or due to a religious observance.
• Experiment participation (extra credits)
  You have the opportunity to raise your final grade by up to 2 points through experimental participation.

  – Some faculty and graduate students in the Department of Linguistics do experimental research on language. This research depends on the participation of undergraduate participants.
  – You have the option of participating in Linguistics experiments during the semester. Each experiment usually takes between 20 and 45 minutes.
  – You will get 1 point credit for every half hour of experimental participation. It does not matter what subfield of Linguistics this experiment is in, but it must be in Linguistics.
  – Experiments are offered through the Linguistics department experiment management system (sona): http://rutgerslinguistics.sona-systems.com. Towards the beginning of the semester, your name and email will be added to the experiment system. You will be issued an anonymous id to participate in experiments through this system. Once Linguistics experiments are posted, you can sign up online. Note that this system is different from the psychology pool, and you should not use a psychology ID to log in to the system.
  – Any student enrolled in a Linguistics undergraduate course is eligible to participate in Linguistics experiments, regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, language status, or impairments, disorders, or disabilities (as long as his/her instructor provides the opportunity). You cannot be denied participation for any of these reasons.
  – You have the right to not participate in experiments to earn extra credit. You may speak with me about possible research alternatives, such as reading a pre-approved scholarly article in linguistics and writing a 2-page paper summarizing it.
  – If you are taking multiple Linguistics courses that allow for experimental participation to count towards extra credit, you are responsible for making sure you have assigned the credit correctly through the experiment system online. This is not your instructor’s, the experimenter’s or the experiment system administrator’s job.
  – If you sign up for, but fail to show up for, two or more experiments, you may be barred from further participation and restricted to research alternatives as described above, so please note the time and location of your experiments, and take your schedule and transportation time into account. Many experiments have restrictions on how late you may cancel online.

Readings

You must keep up with the reading (this should be be very manageable)! The required readings have been posted as pdf files on Canvas. You do not need to buy a textbook for this course.

Assigned course readings will be posted on Canvas, and may come from the following sources:

Schedule

The schedule is given in Table 1. This schedule is tentative and subject to change, but hopefully it helps you get your bearings. Notice in particular:
• Homework will be distributed on Monday (after class) and will be due the end of the week, on Friday (by midnight). When required, HW should be turned in electronically on Canvas in a single file in PDF format. If you come across any issues, please let me know promptly. Please be mindful that late work will not be accepted.

The following policies are provided at ling.rutgers.edu > Academics > Undergraduate > Learning Goals and Policies (a direct link is here). It is the responsibility of all students to read and abide by the policies.

- Rutgers Code of Student Conduct
- Policy on Religiously Observant Students
- Students with Disabilities
- Attendance Policy
- Academic Integrity (See here for updates from June 2020)
- Concerns
- Email and Contact Information Policy

Communications policy

All communications must be courteous and respectful. I’m happy to take time to help you with anything related to the course, but only if you are polite with your requests for that time and acknowledge it with a simple thank-you. (There are lots of “how to write an email” things out there; here’s a good one: http://phdcomics.com/comics.php?f=1795)

Even if you communicate with me properly, please don’t expect to receive a reply to any email outside normal working hours (Mon–Fri, approximately 9–5) or within 24 hours of sending your email. I will not send you quizzes at 7 pm and expect you to turn them in by midnight, so please do not expect the same from your instructors. We will do our best to reply to emails and Canvas postings promptly, but know that just as you have more going on in your life than this particular course, so do we.
Disability Services

Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University’s educational programs. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation: http://ods.rutgers.edu/students/documentation-guidelines. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus’s disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations with them as early in your courses as possible. To begin this process, please complete the Registration form on the ODS web site at: ods.rutgers.edu/students/registration-form.

Academic integrity

It’s unethical and unacceptable to pass off anyone else’s work as your own. Take a moment to review the university’s Academic Integrity policy: http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu. All instances of plagiarism will be reported to the Office of Student Judicial Affairs.

Students may not collaborate on answering questions in homework assignments or exams; homework assignments and exams must be done independently. Collaboration is a violation of the Academic Integrity policy.
